THE FAIR.

SPLENDID INCREASE IN THE RE-

Some Fine Races and Good Time-The Opening Address at the

The fourth day of the State Fair was highly encouraging to the Directors of the State Agricultural Society, the receipts at the Park and Pavilion amounting to $3,responding day last year. The attendance at the Park was the largest ever known on the first day of the races, while there was a good attendance at the Pavilion in the evening. The opening address, by George A. Knight, of San Francisco, was listened to with attention and warmly applauded. The music was fine and was thoroughly enjoyed even larger than yesterday. The Opening Address.

Shortly before nine o'clock, President L. U. Shippee call to order the large audience that had assembled in the art gallery and introduced George A. Knight, of San Francisco, who delivered the following opening address.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: I hardly know why the honor has been conferred upon me to deliver the opening address of the State Fair in Sacramento. Possibly they have used the same rule lawyers do in obtaining their jury. When we find a man whose mind is a perfect blank upon the issues and subject of the case that is about to be submitted to him, we say that man is a pretty fair juror: he knows nothing about the case and we think he will take in by absorption, if nothing else, enough to make him arrive at a just and a fair conclusion. In this instance and with these surroundings it seems to me that that is the reason I have had the honor extended to me this evening of being requested to deliver the opening address at this annual fair of the State of California. In looking around this room it seems to me now, at the present moment, to be more of an honor than I had anticipated. Here in Sacramento, the first city of this Golden State, a city that has done more towards the civilization of this State than any city in it; built by the pioneers and made by them a stepping stone for our State's proud position; being the sunrise of intellectual and inventive progress that has always characterized our State; it is fit and proper that this place should be designated the capital of the State, for the holding of the State Fair.

Have you any idea—of course you have—what a wonderful people we are getting to be? opening address.

nated the capital of the State, for the holding of the State Fair.

Have you any idea—of course you have—what a wonderful people we are getting to be? Stop for a moment and know what a wonderful country these United States of America have grown to be, and California a part and parcel of it. The principles that underlie, control and sustain our national life are to be tested in the coming years of the future. In our present we have much to be thankful for, 60,000,000 happy, free and intelligent people, living within the confines of the most wonderful country in the world, speak to the nations of the earth in language that cannot be misunderstoed of the success of a Government founded by the people, of the people, and for the people, and one that shall never perish from the earth. When we undertake to comprehend the wonderful advancement made comprehend the wonderful advancement made by this nation, yet in the swaddling clothes of experiment, it seems like a fairy dream. One nundred years of a nation is in the ratio of orimary school time to the child; and yet we have to day in yet schore recoveres and investigations. are to-day, in art, science, resources and invention, the leading spirits of the age. The raw material is everywhere present, waiting for science and labor to present new industries and greater demands for our common country. The workshop of industry is open early and late, and the sparks from the anvil of time lightens up the future of reward for the patient Vulcan employed for the interests of our commonwealth. The iron mines of our country that for a long time lay carelessly indifferent to affording one pound of their priceless treasure. re to-day, in art, science, resources and inven-

a long time lay carelessly indifferent to affording one pound of their priceless treasure, have been opened to equip the steamers of commerce, furnish the busy mill of the thousand industries and have bound in fraternal union the Orient and the Occident with the pathway of the iron horse of travel. Our inexhaustible mineral wealth can scarcely be estimated and the treasures yet hidden in the granite safes of the future, away from the gaze of the present generation, will be valuable incentives for active brain and muscle in our children's children, that their inventive genius and industrithe future, away from the gaze of the present generation, will be valuable incentives for active brain and muscle in our children's children, that their inventive genius and industrious day time may lead them to the summit of a peaceful plenty.

The sunrise of hope breaks with freshness upon a prosperous future, and the grateful signs of future prosperity cannot be marred by want or slothful indifference. Thousands upon thousands of God's green acres have yielded, and will yield, their abundant harvest, that we may be nurtured and bountifully fed. The beautiful sierras have furnished their precious metals of trade to better our condition, and the mighty vaults that for centuries have been closed, at the command of scientific research opened with a spring, and the millions they had treasured from their youth until the snows of ages had tipped their rugged peaks, have been thrown recklessly in the lap of man, with the command to the subjects at their base to respond in a just proportion. American genius caught the fire from heaven, and it speaks to us from a hundred thousand miles of wire for our family conversations. We may send it into the bosom of the Atlantic and across its waters and hold friendly converse with the islands of the sea. Tired of the pony express, we aried of the sea. Tired of the pony express, we aried of the post, angry at the expense of the messenger, we conquered time and distance by the wonderful invention that makes the telephone our constant companion and its necessity absolute. Wonderful, say we all, is our present. Still more wonderful the virgin years beckoning us on to greater achievements.

What shall we say of California, the regnant queen, robed in her maiden garments of prosperity and wealth, unspotted yet by a mistake in anything of interest to her people. The Pacific pays her tribute with 1,800 miles of its waters, and invites the commerce of the world to voyage to her Golden Gate. One hundred and ninety thousand square miles, yielding all kinds of mineral and agricultural reso which us perchinat spring. Piercing the domain of heaver, Shasta and Hamilton invite the world's tourists to pleasures denied them elesewhere, while Yosemite proudly watches us in our effort, and the Sentinel Dome stands god-father for our patriotism and power. Education, science and art are no longer the companions of wealth and power exclusively. In workshop and stabble-field, our public schools open their doors to our growing children as a potent factor in future civilization, fitting them for the highest type of American citizenship. With all these tributaries to State and national greatness we bid the future a courteous defiance, and hand to our children's children the ark of freedom's covenant in the presence of a lasting peace.

And now, at this annual congregation of our agricultural people, under circumstances most encouraging and most auspicious, let us bid each other God-speed in our good work, and in behalf of the President and Directors of this institution I bid you all welcome. Stay with us, be happy, and go to your quiet homes feeling and knowing that it was well to have been here.

the County and State. We introduce our review of the county exhibits with a sketch of that of Sacra-mento county. We have deemed it just to other counties to notice it first since it is not in competition for any part of the county exhibit premium money, and the disposal of it now removes any possibility of charge that it is favored. The exhibit occupies the whole of the northeast conservatory and some part of the main hall adjoining it. In addition there are large exhibits elsewhere in the hall that must be classified as part of the county exposition of products, business, manufactures, art, education, special handiwork, etc. The feature of the agricultural or grouped exhibit that will strike the visitor as most prominent is the splendid exhibition of grain In sacks, in bottles, in the head—it is shown in great variety and proves the capacity of Sacramento county for produc-tion of the finest grades of wheat, barley,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL BUTCHERS.

FIRST-CLASS MEATS OF ALL KINDS AT lowest prices. NEW YORK MARKET, 1925 and 1922 K street. Special rates to hotels Butte, Colusa nor Stanislaus have never shown better grains. In corn the exhibit is notably fine. Shocks of corn from field-lots now growing are exhibited. They are from twelve to seventeen and a half feet in hight, and they fairly represent the corn growing sec-tions of all the county, being chosen from different and widely separated localities, and standing for about 400 acres in all from which taken for the exhibition.

Another thing that will strike the spec tator for cibly is the greater care that clearly has been exercised in selecting fruit for exhibition. The committee has not attempted and Fast Time.

The races of the State Fair opened at Agreement of the fruit, but by small lots of very fine yet representative fruit. Yet the display is large, and when it is remembered that most of quite pleasant and the track were in excel

The new improvements in pression with Judge La Rue, and it has its leed it is an exceedingly creditable display. the grand and special stands was admired effect on the drivers. The showing of grapes is first-class; none better has been made in former years. In dried fruits the exhibit is particularly rich. The finest hops ever grown are shown upon In vegetables the exhibit is especially tion of all who view it. It is impossible in the space at command to go into the detail the exhibit deserves. It must suffice to say that while there are resources of the county not represented and others only hinted at, as in nuts, clay and clay prodicts, mineral products, medicinal vegetables and plants, the exhibit is one in which we can take great pride. The effort was to of food products, and in this that attempt has been eminently successful. Good taste throughout has been displayed in arranging the exhibit. It is announced that a great deal more of fruit is to be added to it, but where it will be disposed puzzels us. The place is now fully occupied.

It must be borne in mind that not all the music was fine and was thoroughly enjoyed Sacramento county exhibits are grouped; by all. Everything is now in order and it is thus, flour, granite and manufactures are expected that the attendance to-day will be to be found in other parts of the Pavilion. Most if not all of these we have, however, catalogued below. We append a classified list of the exhibits grouped in the northeast conservatory.

The judges' stand, happy the size and qualities of the growths exhibited being especially meritorious. The ladies, in jams, jellies and preserved fruits, and home-made wines, have made a display that commands the commendation of all who view it. It is impossible in the latter of the grand stand.

The attendance was the largest ever known for a first day, the stands being well filled, while many hundred remained upon the quarter stretch, which, having been raised three feet, gives an excellent view of the race from the start to the finish. The judges of the races for the day were Hugh M. LaRue, Christopher Green and J. Singleterry. The timers—Judge Shafter, Dr. Latham and Samuel Gamble. The first race was the Occident stake, for foals of 18885, mile heats, three in Ove. The cash value of the purse was $1,095, with the cup added, which is valued at $400.

The only starters were A. McFadyen's b. c. Redwood, driven by Billy Donathan, and S. Solomon's b. c. Sol Wilkes, driven by Pete Brandon. Before the start Redwood sold favorite at $40, while Sol Wilkes For the first heat Sol Wilkes took the lead and held it to the finish, winning by four open lengths in the slow time of 2:47. The pools still sold with Redwood a 2 to 1 favorite. The second heat Redwood won

THE SECOND RACE.

The second race on the programme was a trot for the 2:23 class, purse $1,200. The starters were Alfred S., Gus Wilkes, Thapsin and Valentine, started in the order named. Alfred S. was regarded as a sure winner, so he was barred in the pools and the other horses sold as follows: Valentine $25, Thapsin $9, Wilkes $5. After scoring several times the bell was tapped and the horses left the score almost abreast. Alfred S. led on the turn, with Thapsin on his wheel. Wilkes broke and fell several lengths to the rear before the quarter pole was reached. Alfred S. and Thapsin went to the half in close company, the former leading by a neck, in 1:10½. On the homestretch Alfred S. out-footed the black stallion, crossed the score three lengths thead in 2:22, Gus Wilkes third and Valentine bringing up the rear.

The second heat was a repetition of the irst, the position at the finish was the same, Alfred S. winning in 2:21\frac{1}{2}. After this heat pools solo $50 for Alfred S. to $8 or the field, with but few takers at those The third heat proved a surprise to the backers of the favorite. Valentine, who had been trotting a waiting race, coming n last each time, started out to win. He traveled along close up to Alfred S. until the three-quarter pole was reached. Here he collared the favorite. They crotted for some distance together, but near the score Valentine's driver let him out a link or

The fifth heat decided the race. The horses all looked weary, and the backers of the favorite began to hedge on Valentine, which soon ran him up in the pools. When the horses were sent for the fifth heat they all were at the first turn in a bunch. Valentine broke before he reached the eighth pole, and fell back so far that it looked as hough he was out of the race. It was a rattling race to the half between Thapsi Wilkes and Alfred S. On the upper turn i was plain that the favorite was pumped out, and he fell to third place. Wilkes and Thapsin turned into the home stretch together, but were soon overhauled and done to dwellings and warehouses in the passed by Valentine, who came up with a city, to vessels in the harbor and to wharves wonderful burst of speed, and won the race amidst the shouts of the field-buyers by several lengths, Alfred S. distanced, Wilkes

Wilson & Mitchell, Of the Golden Eagle Carriage Company this city, have on exhibition in the west wing of the pavilion one of the handsomest carriages perhaps ever seen in the building. It was manufactured to order by James Cunningham & Sons, of Rochester, N. Y. The workmanship and finish is of the very best character. The upholstry work on the inside, which is very superior, is of pebble goat. All the late improvements, consist ing of looking glass, match safe and toilet case have been added. The doors and other parts where glass is used, are all of heavy French plate and very beautiful. This vehicle cost $1,600. Messrs. Wilson & Mitchell have the best carriage accommo tions in Sacramento, as well as the bes stock. Their principal stand, where al orders will be promptly attended to, is a the Golden Eagle Hotel, and at Wilson' livery stables, 318 K street. Visitors at tending the fair who may wish to take a drive, will find at the above stables fast horses and fine turnouts. The carriages owned by this firm are all in charge of trustworthy and reliable men, so you may feel safe when out riding. Worthy of Notice.

gained, there is every prospect of an exceedingly large and fine crep. The most conservative estimates place the total pack at 400,000 boxes, while others confidently stated it will reach 500,000. One-third of the crop will be London layers, against about 20 per cent. the year before. The pack will exceed that of last year by at least 50,000 boxes, and will be more than double that of the year before. The large increase is partly owing to increased acreage, but principally to the vines bearing much heavier. Prices range from 4 cents for the poorer quality to 5 cents for the best quality of Muscat raisins, which readily mmand that figure.

The latter has succeeded wherever tried, and is the one and only certain method of destroying all personous emanations due to decaying organic matter.

UNDER the guise and protection of a socalled "Athletic Club" prize fighting is now permitted in San Francisco, and there appears to be no attempt whatever to stop it. The gloves used are mere shams, and actually enable the wearer to do more damage to his opponent's head and body than if he used bare knuckles. Those who gain admission to the Club exhibitions pay from $5 to $15 each, and the participants in the fights are given large purses to make beasts of themselves. So far as that is concerned, however, no sympathy should be wasted upon them-the vital interest in the matter is the enforcement of the law. These Athletic Club contests are announced as "fights," not "boxing matches," and they are in every respect regular bruising matches or prize fights, precisely such as the law prohibits. Yet, though the newspapers have no difficulty in obtaining full reports of the "affairs," the officers of the law seem to be unable and indisposed to interfere and enforce the prohibitive statute of the State. Let San Francisco next open up cock-pits and bull-rings under some high-sounding a vote will be taken to-morrow at 1 o'clock, title, and thus encourage the taste for and then the Senate adjourned. brutal and inhuman exhibitions. THE London Standard's pugnacity does not reflect the tone of English sentiment, for there is nothing whatever to indicate that the people of Great Britain, or those of the United States, are anxious to enter the field of war. The bluster of a newspaper here and there must not be mistaken for the expression of the thought of the people. Mrs. Smith is the champion of Mary Ann Dougherty, whose pension bill the President vetoed on the ground that she was a disreputable character, having been arrested seventeen times. This charge of the President Mrs. Dougherty emphatically denies, and to have her wrongs righted went to the Women's Union here and laid the case before them, inviting the clos investigating. Mrs. Smith took hold of the case, and stated to-day that she had made a personal search of the records of the Police Court of the city, where the

she therefore thinks, has a perfect right to The petition is a very cleverly-worded affair. It puts its case on the broad ground that all citizens of the United States are created free and equal, and that a public office, no matter how high, should not protect even the President for acts done to the injury of any citizen, no matter how lowly.

WRAPS

Among the more important of the Fall arrivals are our Cloaks, Jackets and Wraps. Our importations are unusually heavy for this season, and it is necessary for us to state that they comprise the styles that will be in vogue. The fact that these goods are from Cloak Manufacturers who stand at the head of their CIRCUS business gives us the assurance to confidently recommend them in regard to Fit, Shapeliness and Finish. We believe we can offer better inducements as to price than can be obtained elsewhere. We propose that this department shall be a leading feature of the o'clock, at the United Brethren Church establishment, and we are sparing no effort to achieve that end.

Out of the hundreds of Garments we are showing we mention the following:

A Newmarker in an English Twill, striped in terra cotta and black, with fan back and bell sleeves. The latest style. Price, $10.

Newmarkets as high as $30 and as low as $4 90. A fine Black Beaver Cloth Jacket, elaborately trimmed with soutache braid down the back and front, and on the collars and cuffs. A very handsome garment. Price, $8 50.

Fine Plaid and Striped Jackets with Velvet fronts, revers and silk ornament. Price, $5. An elegant Scalette Wrap with tight sleeves, long tabs in front and silk trimmings. Price, $22 50. A large variety of these hand-Sealette Jackets, Moojeskas and Children's Cloaks in an immense Anyone contemplating the purchase of anything in the above lines will find these goods worth seeing. Except in a few cases, there are no two garments alike, thereby presenting you exclusive styles. It's a point worth considering.

In speaking of the effect produced by the pro-tective tariff on the wages of labor, President

The argument of the President plainly, though intricately expressed, is that those not employed in what may be termed a protected industry have no interest in maintaining a protective tariff.

A very slight analysis will serve to show that in this deduction the President is in error. Take, for instance, the 3 5,143 carpenters and joiners. Where does the President suppose that this large host of intelligent mechanics, with perhaps nearly two millions of persons dependent upon their earnings, will find work if the destruction or serious impairment of the pro-

It might have proved advantageous to the President, as it would a suredly have proved interesting to the people, if he had caused any accurate official inquiry to be made into the close connection of the transportation and manufacturing interests, and how both in turn are indissolubly linked with the agricultural interest, to the great profit of all three. The very figures which the President quotes prove the immense home market which the farmers have in the United States. In round numbers, over 7,600,000 are engaged in agriculture, while nearly 10,000, are engaged in other industrial pursuits, and constitute, with the families dependent on them, an enormous market for the products of the farm. Every enlargement of that home market is a boom to the farmer, while its limitation would be his direct and irreparable loss.

It might also have been interesting if the President had extended his inquiries into the number of "carpenters" and "masons" and "milliners" and "dressmakers" and "tailors" and "blacksmiths" and "but hers' who have been called to their respective employments in consequence of the general prosperity of the country brought about by the influence of the tariff, and whose earnings would be seriously reduced by the destruction of protection. At that point the President would perhaps have found the scope of his inquiries so enlarged that he would have been compelled to take into consideration every class of labolers in the recommended strikes labor a far more severe blow than it inflicts upon eapital, and that in the end its most baleful effect, if enacted into blow than it inflicts upon capital, and that in the end its most baleful effect, if enacted into law, would be in giving capital an exasperating control of labor, a result already attained where

Returned. ant an opportunity to file his charges. In suspending officer Able, Chief Lee acted upon the supposition that it was his duty to suspend an officer when charges were preferred which he considered of such a se rious nature as to warrant such action, even though the charges had not yet been reduced to writing and sworn to. Mayor Gregory held that no member of the Board of Police Commissioners had a right to sus-pend an officer unless verified charges were made. On examining the regulations more carefully, Chief Lee agreed that such was the case, and that the officer should be reinstated until charges were regularly filed. The facts of the case, so far as developed, appear to be about as follows: About 1 o'clock yesterday morning special officer Frank Knott, brought to the station one James Voorhees, a man well-known in this city, who was under the influence of liquor. He had on his person something over $64, which was put in the safe by night jailer, Rowland. About 3 o'clock in the morning officer Able appeared and asked if any charge had been placed against Voorhees, and was informed that there had not; he had only been locked up for safe keeping. He stated that he knew the man and would take him home. Officer Rowland says he brought Voorhees out and turned him over Able, counted out the money, put it in the purse, and handed it to Able to give to the owner. He thinks Able gave Voorhees the money right at that time. Able put Plymon

Voorhees in a hack and drove away.

Towards morning Voorhees again appeared at the station-house, and said that Able had taken him to Thirteenth and O streets, and put him out of the hack, and left him. That on the way Able pushed his purse into his pocket and said, "There's your money." When he came to examine his purse he found that it only contained a few dollars in silver. Voorhees insisted that he told Able several times while they were on the way that he lived at the Empire House or Market lived at the Empire House, on K street, as far as the Golden Eagle Hotel, and that they then drove out to where Voorhees said he lived, and left him. When the hack when thrown upon a hard substance. stopped Voorhees got out, took out his purse and handed him $1 50, which he gave

Joe Smith, the hack-driver, corroborated the statement of officer Able before the Po-lice Commissioners, though he had first told Chief Lee that he thought Able gave the man his purse at the time he got out of

E. C. Hart, who appeared before the Board in behalf of the officer, said that they desired a full investigation, and could prove that Able's statement was correct. While the Board was in session Voorhees came in, still under the influence of liquor, and stated that he would not make any charges against the officer. He did not ap pear to know what he was talking about, and the Board adjourned until 1 o'clock to day. Meantime the officer stands reinstated, and if no charges are filed that will be the end of it.

Before the Board adjourned Chief Lee called attention to the fact that men were $200. often brought in by officers, their names not entered upon the records, and subset to their houses from the Tenth-street fire, quently allowed to go. He thought that an alarm was turned in from box 54, lothe name of every man arrested ought to be cated at Twentieth and K. The depart-recorded. Mayor Gregory and Judge Buckment responded promptly and found the ley agreed with him, and it was so ordered.

goods to their customers in the city in flat-bottom boats during the flood, and a small steamer ran around the north end of Lyle's bridge and took their goods to the canvas city at Norristown. Looking back over a period of nearly forty years we are amazed by the pluck and indomitable resolution of Sacramento pioneers. Like our Pilgrim Fathers, they came to remain and spend their strength and wealth in building up the city and developing the resources of the State. > Thirteen and the Sixteen mile Houses. The change in the landscape of that part of Sacramento is wonderful. No person then imagined that this upland plain would ever present such a beautiful scene or such charming scenery as now delights the eye of the traveler. The old pioneers, who now, for the first time, see these cultivated fields, fruit orchards, vineyards and gardens can hardly be made to believe that it is the same barren plain that they walked over on their way to the city or to the mines. No encomium of mine can adequately repay these pioneers of civilization for the great change wrought in converting will spread.

No part of California has yielded so much gold with so little outlay as the Georgeiown Divide. Its location in relation to the great Sierras shows that it is in the line of the upheaval which caused them. The Taylor, Rosec ans, Bright Hope, Alpine and other mines are exactly in the trend of the mineral belt, and no doubt received their deposits of ore among the very first of the fissures. The Taylor, Alpine, Josephine, Gopher-Boulder, Dalmatia and Zantgraft are the only vein mines that are worked, and of these all are idle except the Alpine and Taylor. The trouble is not lack of ore, No part of California has yielded so much and of these all are idle except the Alpine and Taylor. The trouble is not lack of ore, but lack of water to move the stamps and flood the batteries.

Of the hundreds of seam mines that are on the Divide, many of which are known to be valuable, and some of which are owned by the California Water Company, in manufacturing agricultural implements on the Divide, many of which are known to be valuable, and some of which are owned by the California Water Company, only the Blue Rock, Beatty and Pacific are working. Of the drift mines, on the north side of the Divide, only two, the Buckeye men at work.

The argument of the President plainly, The Argument of the President plai The Mount Hope mine, owned by the Cali-fornia Water Company, and lying, accord-ing to the opinions of the ablest judges, and most experienced miners, exactly in the channel of the old river, is idle. The Fairchild and the Boulder, hydraulic mines, are idle too, although they are known to be rich properties. In every case the trouble is scarcity of water. We have no hesitation in saying that if the supply of water that could be used were at the moral and social virtue and in the grand work of pushing forward all the industrial interests of the citizens of our State. Sactamento is noted for her charities, and no hesitation in saying that if the supply of water that could be used were at the disposal of the local company, where it is worthy or unfortunate person will appeal for aid to her benevolent citizens without a generous response and necessary relief.

BAILROAD INTERESTS.

Strangely enough the President refrains, either from design or oversight, to notice what effect the serious reduction of the tariff would have on the 1,810,256 men employed in transportation, viz.: On the railways, coastwise, versels, river steamers and barges, canal, wagon and stage lines. These varied modes of transportation represent an investment of thousands of millions of dollars of American money and give employment to nearly two million of men whose earnings support nine millions of people. Whatever impairs American manufacturing strikes at the great transportation interests. Iron ore admitted free from Spain, coal admitted free from Austraiia, all favor British ships at the expense of American railroads. The further the President goes in the direction of the doctrine laid down in his message, the more direct and the more deadly is the assault upon the whole organization of American industries. The phenomenon was there. When Haggin completed by Saturd gets a good thing some one else gets one that is better, and it is no wonder the magnate of Rancho del Paso elects to retire from racing, mone of the rich prizes of the turf seemingly can be had, no matter what the merit of his horses is. For several years Haggin has been the largest nomi-nator of horses in stakes, East and West, and it is no uncommon thing to see over thirty horses nominated for a single stake and then to see them stricken off because of lack of condition or failure in speed. For two years Haggin has been looking for a champion two-year-old, and it was hoped he would possess the prize among the entries of his mares or yearlings, as the conditions might be, in several stakes. This year Haggin, in spite of his ill-luck in all the spring events, looked forward with great confidence to the decision of the Junior Champion and Futurity, because he was satisfied that he had in Salvator the preediest and camest two years all in the
